Ashfield RSL Club has a Code of Practice of which the following are ~

Acceptable Practices

1. The traditional “happy hour “during or immediately following normal daytime working hours.
2. A complimentary standard drink upon arrival, or for a special occasion.
3. Promotions involving low alcohol beer where it is clear from the advertising and promotional material that it is a low alcohol beer promotion.
4. Selling and promoting low alcohol beer by a substantially cheaper price than a full strength beer.
5. The advertising of a consistent price of a particular type or brand of liquor across the entire trading hours of a premises on a given day or night providing the price is not so low that it will , in itself, encourage excessive consumption and intoxication.
6. Promotion of a particular brands of liquor that provide incentives to purchase that brand by virtue of a consistent discounted price, offer of a prize, but does not provide any particular incentive to consume that product more rapidly than a patron’s normal drinking habit.

Unacceptable Practices

1. Liquor promotions which attract under age people.
2. Drinks that offer alcohol in non standard measures and or by virtue of their emotive titles and their method of consumption encourages irresponsible drinking habits and are likely to result in rapid intoxication.
3. Drink cards that provide a multiple of free drinks ,extreme discounts or discounts of limited duration on a given day or night and or have the capacity to be readily stockpiled by patrons or transferred to other patrons. In other words, the drink card must not by design or potential misuse create an incentive for patrons to consume liquor rapidly than otherwise might.
4. Any labelling or titling of promotions that may encourage a patrons to consume liquor more rapidly than they otherwise might.
5. The refusal to serve half measures of spirits on request or provide reasonably priced non alcoholic drinks (including water)
6. Any promotions that encourages a patron to consume liquor excessively~
 - All you can drink
 - Free drinks for women
 - Two for One

to consume the drinks in an unreasonable short period of time.

Ashfield RSL Club has controls in place to ensure that the above unacceptable practices do not occur to ensure the premises are being properly conducted for your comfort and safety.
